BLUSD Member Band Spotlight

Our August 27 BLUSD featured Member Band is LEILANI KILGORE & ELECTRIC VOODOO

Leilani Kilgore & Electric Voodoo feature Leilani on guitar and vocals, Tyler Ray Davidson on bass and vocals and Malachi Johnson on drums.

Leilani is a 16 year old blues artist from Southern California who is drawing attention and enthusiasm from blues fans and professional musicians alike. Dubbed by a Chicago mentor as the 'Princess of the Blues' and showing promise as the future of the blues, this young lady is one to watch as a rising star for her lead guitar, vocal and song writing talents.

When she began creating songs at the age of four, her passion for music and intuitive gift for songwriting and melody were apparent. She began playing and learning guitar at age nine with classical guitarist Craig Dell. She has studied classical, flamenco, blues, and jazz. She is the lead guitarist for the Great Oak High School jazz ensemble, Soul Tree.

A soulful performer, she is devoted to developing her musical vocabulary and range and has embraced the blues as a medium of expression. Leilani explains, "I don't play blues to show off my technique. I play blues to tell the audience things I can't express with words. Blues is about digging up the deepest part of you and letting it speak through your music."

She has been inspired by a broad range of influences from traditional early Delta, Chicago and Texas blues including Sun House, Muddy Waters, B.B. King, Robert Johnson, John Lee Hooker to contemporary blues styles including Joe Bonamassa, Jack White, Beth Hart, Stevie Ray Vaughan, Jimi Hendrix, Etta James and Bonnie Raitt.

Among other venues she appears at, Leilani, the BLUSD Youth Ambassador, leads the Youth Jam at the Gaslamp Speakeasy. Find Leilani at www.facebook.com/leilani.kilgore ■

CD/DVD Review.....

THE BLUES CAME CALLIN'

Walter Trout

CD/DVD set

Provogue

Confronted with an illness that threatened to cut his life short before his recent liver transplant, Walter Trout turned inwardly to examine his past, and outwardly to reflect upon the state of mankind, and came up with a treasure trove of insightful lyrics that put this cd in a class by itself. The overall tone of the album is not of despair, but rather recognition of mistakes regretted, true values properly placed, and triumph over the ultimate challenge that faced him. In the defiant opening track, "Wasting Away," he sets the attitude for the album, telling us the story of looking death in the face and becoming a better man for it, closing with a heartfelt love song written for his wife, "Nobody Loves Me Like You Do."

The liner notes include all of the album lyrics. Except for J.B. Lenoir's "The Whale Have Swallowed Me," which vividly expresses Trout's own struggles, he wrote all of the lyrics. John Mayall makes a memorable appearance on his own instrumental composition, "Mayall's Piano Boogie."

Despite his extreme physical challenges from the liver disease, the cd tracks demonstrate that he has still maintained the full fire and fury of the guitar attack that he is known for, as well as his expressive vocals and skilled harp playing.

The DVD narrates his history as a blues player, including the Canned Heat years, his time with John Mayall's band, his solo career, and his current involvement as a mentor to young blues musicians. His belief that there is a rising new generation of musicians dedicated to the blues is confirmed in the faces of the music academy students who are clearly inspired by his masterful expression of blues guitar at its best. ~ DM

BLUSD 2014 Blues Summer Camp a Success!

What a delightful group of talented teenagers we had this year. As always we are amazed and proud of them in the final result. The concert was fabulous this year with 11 different items on the Program. Our talented, full time Blues Counselors Michele Lundeen, Ric Lee, Fuzzy Rankins, Danny Perez with some extra help from Rachelle Danto, Julian and John January, allowed every individual to shine. The Concert finished with the popular song "Happy" which had the audience up, clapping, dancing and having a great time.

The new facility at Madison High School gave us room to move and the benefit of more equipment and a proper Performing Arts Facility.

All the students were able to jam, drum, play pianos, use marimbas and explore their creative talents in their break times. Our photographers Mary and David Lewis were great support throughout the week and have captured many shots for us all to enjoy. This year Robin Henkel provided a fascinating enrichment session; Rachelle Danto gave a 30 minute group lesson on Harmonica and Julian taught drumming techniques from Guam on the hand drums.

Our student mentors Leilani Kilgore (BLUSD's Youth Blues Ambassador); Nate Hess; Katie Cole; and Stephan Rankins were all great assistants and provided inspiration to the younger students.

The best endorsement that we can get is the thank you notes from the parents!
Thanks, Janet B

"I just wanted to write and let you know that my daughter (Stephany) had a great time at the Blues Camp and we really enjoyed the show at the end. I expected the typical slow paced recital but what you put on was a real show. I'll be talking about this program will all my associates. Hopefully you'll have another camp next year and give us plenty of notice to sign up."

"My family would like to thank you for all of your hard work setting up and running last week's camp. We were blessed beyond measure by your efforts and by your encouragement of our daughter"

"Wanted to send you a note to thank you for putting on this year's camp and giving Mallory the opportunity to shine! It meant the world to her and helped her with her continued development in life. Thanks also to all the wonderful and talented counselors"

"Camp was great -- both kids are already up for doing it again next year!" ■

Loving Local Event Benefits in a Big Way!

After months and months and many hours of preparation the 3rd Loving Local Music Local Food Event on August 10 at Driscoll Wharf turned out to be a spectacular event and a great success. Thanks so much to our musicians who gave their time on this day. Ric Lee coordinated a wonderful musical presentation. Ric Lee and the Bayou Brothers with special guests Michele Lundeen, Dane Terry and Robin Henkel set the party scene. Our youth Band with Leilani Kilgore, accompanied by Tyler Ray Davidson and Nate Hess, showed the audience that the Blues is appreciated and performed by young and old. Whitney Shay and the Shakedown provided excellent jazz and blues entertainment throughout the dinner.

The Blues Community generously donated services and items to auction for BLUSD to raise funds for our Blues In The Schools and Annual Summer Camp. Special thanks to our raffle king Stoney B, and our auction contributors Cathy Hammond, Patti Fox, Deborah Wolfe, Barbara Kabe, Jon Naugle, Michael Kinsman, Shauna Aguire, Lance and Mary Dieckmann, Mitzi Stone, Rosalea Schaivone, Donna Mallen, Mary and David Lewis and the businesses who helped us raise over $3000. To our other volunteers Janine Harty, Bob Prater, Debbie Kelly, Alex Blair Marvin Head, Tina Pollock, thank you.

Then there is LJ Livingston. Wow, what an amazing woman. She has given of her time along with her husband, children and many close friends to create an Annual Benefit for local non-profit organizations simply because she wanted to give back and promote an awareness of sustainable, "green" local food businesses and local musicians and music education.

LJ orchestrated an event that went off without a hitch. It took an enormous amount of work and to her we are truly grateful.
